Shelton Taylor at New Windsor Community Day– By Matt Veronesi and Patrick Mangan

We are in the age of Social Media and our younger generation are online daily with platforms such as Youtube, Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat etc. They spend a lot of time watching videos, looking at pictures, and following different people. Social Media has become a great way for a young person to showcase a talent whether it is music, acting, modeling, or just making funny videos. Many current young stars have been discovered online including Justin Bieber who was one of the first exploding on Youtube in 2008, Carly Rae Jepsen, Shawn Mendes, Kate Upton, Cameron Dallas, Nash Grier, the Dolan Twins and so many more. But social media is just a platform for these young performers to showcase their skills. Nothing every replaces the good old qualities of hard work to perfect the skill and the consistent putting out of quality videos or other posts that will help grow a following on social media. And this mass following will then hopefully gain the attention of the decision makers of the entertainment industry thus signing this talent to music contracts, for TV and movies, to modeling contracts, and whatever else they can make a career out of.

One young singer named Shelton Taylor has started to gain a following on Instagram where he started by posting short musical covers when he was 15 years old. We had a chance to talk with Shelton recently and we believe this young man has a very bright future ahead of him and we are thrilled he is going to join us for New Windsor Community Day on Saturday August 26th. When we asked him how his rise of popularity came about on social media he said that with him it definitely didn't happen overnight. Shelton said "it didn't catch on for a while. I consistently posted covers that I enjoyed playing and had a passion for and was being persistent and hoped eventually they would catch on. And then the next one would be better." It was about a year of re-leasing his covers that his following really started to take off. Now at 17 years old he has roughly 150,000 followers on his different social media accounts. Pretty impressive being that we are thrilled with just a little over 5,000 followers on New Windsor Community Day Facebook page.

Shelton Taylor comes from the San Antonio Texas area and is the second oldest child from a family of 10, with his parents, four sisters and three brothers. Shelton says that he is very appreciative of the support that his family gives him, and coming from a big family is never boring. He really looks up to his parents as role models as well as his older brother Scott.

Shelton has been playing and singing music for as long as he can remember. He said "music has really been a part of my life since I was really young. I remember singing in church at the age of five. That was my first time on a stage." Besides singing Shelton plays the guitar and has started to learn to play the piano. He said "watching my grandfather play the guitar really mesmerized me, and inspired me and I kind of knew it was going to be my thing."

Music wise his influences are Bono, the Beatles, Jon Foreman from Switchfoot, and Jon Bellion. Shelton said "I really enjoy all of their music. It doesn't have to be one person to base yourself off of, you can learn so much and take so much from different individuals." He added "just this past week I was able to go see Ed Sheeran in concert in LA. It was just him and his guitar. I appreciate for sure that he can write songs people can hang on to. And he was also a great performer!" Watching his musical role models has taught Shelton a lot about what he needs to do to become an accomplished musician. He said "there never really is a limit to what you can do. Just always be working to get better than where you are today. Being a musician doesn't mean going at it for a while and hoping you will be the best you can be. You have to go at it every day, and there will never be a point where I say I am as good as I can get. You are always learning!"

Those are some pretty wise words from someone so young. This 17 year old young man really seems to have a good head on his shoulders. He has some pretty lofty goals for his music too and we really believe he is off to a great start and will achieve them. He says his goals for music are creating something that people will be able to hold on to and appreciate and maybe even get something out of. Shelton says "that is enough for me just to know that people could possibly be changed by my music." Shelton has begun to write his own music, some of which he will perform at Community Day. He said "when writing songs for me there definitely is a process. And I usually start with the melody first. A song without words still has an emotion to it. But I think the best songs come from the heart. And when writing songs from the heart based on what you are going through, those are the most powerful songs." Having heard some of his original music you definitely can see this young man has a lot of talent, and his songs will definitely touch a lot of people's hearts. And most importantly he seems like a very good young man who has been brought up the right way!

Check out Shelton Taylor's Instagram account @sheltontaylor and his website at www.sheltontaylormusic.com . And if you would like to meet Shelton and see him perform come out to New Windsor Community Day on Saturday August 26th where he will be doing a meet and greet at 6pm and then performing on Stage one at 7:45pm.
